About Me:

I am a second-year Bachelor of Science in Information Technology student with a passion for programming, personal development, and technology. I enjoy reading, researching, and working with computers, which fuels my drive for continuous learning and growth. Motivated by my goals and inspired by my role models, I aim to develop high-paying skills, achieve a good work-life balance, and travel the world. Known for being funny, observant, and easy to get along with, I bring a positive and adaptable attitude to any environment, and I'm eager to build my technical expertise and pursue opportunities for personal and professional growth.
